

Task 1:

Implementation:

Implement the described Task using any of these technologies:

React/Angular/NextJS or Wordpress Underscores platform (better solution)

User Story:

As an end user, when I navigate to the website, I want to be presented with an landing page that matches the design provided in WF. Landing page must be responsive and Mobile friendly (Pixel perfect).

To Do:

Implement an Pixel Perfect landing page with the exact design provided in the WF (only Homepage and menu)

Task 2:

User Story:

As an end user, when I click on Survey, I want to be able to provide all information by selecting or checking the answers provided.

To Do:

Fetch <https://nf-api.imperea.ba/api/v1/survey> endpoint to get the Survey with it's child relations.

For each category show it's header text, and step (see image below), the progress bar under the header should update with each Next button click until the user reaches the last category.

Loop all objects in “SurveyContent” and create dynamic controls based on it’s “FieldType” (Checkbox, DropDown, FileUpload etc.) if there are unknown types (e.g CustomControl_PartialView_Menu or MultiSelect) they can be left out.

Each Question, has defined answers, also some answers can have additional questions or notifications, implement logic that if user selects an specific answer, its child Question with answers is displayed.

Acceptance Criteria:

Both Landing Page and Survey should match the design provided in Wire Frame or Screenshot.

Survey should have the requested functionality, I should be able to select answers, and depending on the answer I have chosen, if there are other Questions assigned with that answer, I should be able to provide additional answers. (Each question can have multiple answers, and also selected answers can have child questions with answers in their inverse parent relation).

Solution should be bug free and executable. Solution should be uploaded to Github and Emir Sabic should be added as Code Reviewer.
